

Assessment Questionnaire: Entrepreneurship

There are signs of entrepreneurship that can begin early in life and develop up until the present. If you possess many of these traits, it is likely that entrepreneurship is a good match for you and that if you do not pursue some form of entrepreneurial venture, you may feel incomplete.

Do you have the personality and behaviours of a born entrepreneur? Have you always been destined for entrepreneurship throughout your life?

Please read each statement and record your level of agreement on the scale of 1 to 5.

1. I remember coming up with many 'business plans' when I was a child and teenager, from selling biscuits to lemonade to other products.
2. I often think about how I love (or would love) being my own boss and being responsible for my own successes or failures.
3. Others have told me that I have a high degree of risk tolerance, that is, I can not only tolerate but I also enjoy some degree of risk in my career.
4. I am a person who has always been attracted to the idea of creating a business and dedicating my career to growing a company.
5. Ever since I was young, I have always dreamed of running my own company.
6. I find it difficult to work for someone else because I am so independent and always have creative ideas that I want to implement.
7. I do not typically long for a stable and consistent job.
8. My parents used to introduce me to people with terms such as 'our little entrepreneur.'
9. When I was in grade school or high school, I started at least one mini-business based out of my parents' home.
10. I enjoy being extroverted and building relationships with many people who are potential business partners or alliances.
11. My siblings or other relatives noticed my capitalist tendencies when I was younger- if there was something to be sold, I tried to sell it.
12. I have always been really interested in hearing the stories of highly successful businesspeople and how they came to be so successful.
13. In college, I took several classes in entrepreneurial studies or I took classes with the specific thought in mind about how they could benefit my future business.
14. I remember some key moments in my youth when the idea of being an entrepreneur came very clearly through to me.
15. I have never been able to manage not having my own business or some form of entrepreneurship.
16. People have constantly told me things like, 'that is such a great business idea, you should really do that!'
17. When I think about not being able to pursue my business ideas at any point in time, I think I would never be happy if I could not.
18. It is typical for me to think that I naturally have what it takes to be a successful entrepreneur.
19. I can see traces of business savvy and interest dating back to my youth.
20. My parents have many interesting and sometimes funny stories to tell about my childhood entrepreneurship ventures.
21. When I was in college, I actively sought out internships or other opportunities to talk with and learn from small business owners.
22. I would be very happy to run my own business and turn some of my small business dreams into reality.
23. My work associates have told me that I am really best suited to small business ownership because of my skills in conceiving of new business ideas and business plans.
24. I remember a few specific business activities I engaged in during high school or college to make some money and sell a product or service.
25. I frequently talked with friends about businesses we could start together since I had so many ideas.
26. I have been told that when I was a young child, I was always seeking out new experiences and activities.
27. I have always known that I am meant to be an entrepreneur at some point in my life.
28. I tend to get enthusiastic and excited whenever I hear small business success stories, especially those where the owner pursued her or his dream to get there.
29. Over the course of my life, I have always been curious and up for a challenge.
30. If I had my choice, I would definitely be in my own business, and I have been working hard to make that happen.
